

FERDINAND A. ROBICHAUX

Corporal Ferdinand A. Robichaux, Jeannerette who was a member of the engineer corps which helped to build and maintain the Lodo road which has replaced the Burma road as supply link between Burma and China. The above photograph appeared in Life magazine and in hundreds of newspapers throughout the country.

LOUIS J. LEBLANC

Staff Sergeant Louis J. LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clauffe LeBlanc of Jeannerette who is in the Army and stationed in North Carolina.

An Apology

MR. AND MRS. S. L. CATHCART
and others whom I have forgotten

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cathcart were among the very first to submit the picture of their son, Sam Cathcart, Jr. It was not until the last press run that I noticed that I did not have the cut of the young man, and because of the lack of time, I could not have another made. I have had a very tough time getting this book out and I know that Mr. and Mrs. Cathcart and others whom I may have forgotten will not hold any grievances against me. I feel just as terrible about this as the parents do and ask that you accept my apologies.

A. J. HEBERT

SAM CATHCART, JR.

Pfc. Sam C. Cathcart, Jr., U. S. Marine Corps, stationed at San Diego, California, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cathcart of Columbia, South Carolina, and former residents of Jeannerette. Young Cathcart has been in the service nineteen months and is in Chemical Warfare.

NICHOLAS J. LANDRY

Pfc. Nicholas J. Landry, son of Mrs. Philbert Landry, formerly of near Jeannerette and now of Jefferson Island who has been in the service since October 19, 1941. A former member of the Jeannerette Guards, Landry was one of four Louisianians to come through the epic 12-day battle of Leyetes "Lost Battalion" which held a road bloc for four days against fanatical Japanese charges in the fighting for Ormec corridor.